Re: In re Adam R. Grossman, Case No. 10-19817-MLB

Dear Mr. Grossman:

The Court received your "Statement by Adam R. Grossman re: Suggestions Made to the Trustee to Administer the Estate for the Benefit of All Creditors" and "Amended Statement by Adam R. Grossman re: Suggestions Made to the Trustee to Administer the Estate for the Benefit of All Creditors" (the "Statements"). The Statements have been placed on the docket for the above-referenced case. See Docket Nos. 429 and 431.

Please be advised that neither of your Statements constitutes a proper motion, complaint, or claim objection, and/or the Statements were not filed and served in accordance with applicable federal and local rules of bankruptcy procedure. Thus, Judge Barreca has not considered the merits of your Statements.

To the extent either of your Statements are intended to be responsive to matters currently pending before the Court, you must clearly identify the matter(s) to which they are responsive. Although Docket Number 429 references the Trustee's proposed order at Docket No. 368, Docket Number 368 is not currently pending before the Court. The Court will take no further action regarding your Statements unless and until they are properly before the Court.

On September 10, 2012, the Court also received "Adam R. Grossman's Objection to Proposed Order on Claims (#1)" which discusses an unidentified claim (Dkt. No. 424), Adam R. Grossman's Objection to Proposed Order on Claims (#2)," which discusses the claim of Beth Shalom EEC (Dkt. No. 426), "Adam R. Grossman's Objection to Proposed Order on Claims (#3)," discussing the claim of the Tsai Law Company (Dkt. No. 427), the "Statement in Response to Objection to Claim of Joanna Strober" (Dkt. No. 425), "Adam R. Grossman's Response to Amended Declaration of No Objection to Trustee's Objection to Claims Numbers 20-32" (Dkt. No. 428), and "Response to Docket No. 405" (Dkt. No. 432) (collectively the "September 10, 2012 Pleadings").

Please be advised that none of the September 10, 2012 Pleadings constitutes a proper motion, complaint, or claim objection, and/or the September 10, 2012 Pleadings were not filed and served in accordance with applicable federal and local rules of bankruptcy procedure. Thus, Judge Barreca has not considered the merits of the September 10, 2012 Pleadings.

To the extent any of the September 10, 2012 Pleadings were intended to be responsive to matters currently pending before the Court, you must clearly identify the matter(s) to which they are responsive. To the extent any of the September 10, 2012 Pleadings were intended to be responsive to the Trustee's Objections to Claim at Docket Numbers 382, 383, 385, 386, 387, 388, 389, 390, 391, 392, 393, 394, 395, and 396 (the "Claim Objections"), the deadline for responding to those Claim Objections was August 31, 2012. The Court will take no further action regarding the September 10, 2012 Pleadings unless and until they are properly before the Court.

To bring a motion or adversary proceeding before the Court you must proceed in accordance with the Bankruptcy Code and applicable federal and local rules of bankruptcy procedure. Further information and Judge Barreca's available calendar dates are available on the Court's website, www.wawb.uscourts.gov.

Bankruptcy Rule 9003 and the Code of Judicial Conduct prohibit the Court from having ex-parte contact with a party concerning matters that may come before it. Thus, if you wish to pursue a matter in this case, you should be aware that the Court cannot render legal advice or substantive instructions on how to proceed. Any questions you have should be directed to an attorney. You may be able to speak with an attorney for free by contacting the Debt Clinic, administered through the King County Bar Association, at (206) 267-7070, between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 12:00 p.m., Monday-Thursday.

Sincerely,

Ramie N. O'Neill
